

Know Your Audience

A Practical Guide to Media Research

Dennis List

3rd edition

copyright © Dennis List, 2007

author's email:

audial@ftml.net

author's web site:

www.audiencedialogue.net

Contact with all inquiries:

John Goslino

john.goslino@gmail.com

Mobile: 0435060034

Landline: +61 8 8339 8232

Fax: +61 8 8339 8039

27 Whitewood Drive

Upper Sturt SA

Australia 5156

Contents

Part I: Survey methods .....	5	Fieldwork locations and types.....	106
1 Planning for research .....	6	Preparation and training .....	107
What is media research? .....	6	Finding respondents .....	111
Research as feedback .....	8	Interview logs .....	116
Reasons for research .....	12	Persuading reluctant respondents .....	118
The topics of research .....	13	Interviewing .....	121
Planning a research project .....	15	Probing .....	123
How large is an audience? .....	16	Filling in questionnaires .....	126
Which is the best research method?.....	20	Verification .....	127
Who should do the research? .....	23	Debriefing .....	127
Doing your own research .....	24	5 Analysing survey data .....	128
Writing a research brief .....	26	Preparation .....	128
A plan for research .....	28	Checking and editing .....	129
2 Designing a sample .....	30	Data entry .....	133
Populations .....	30	Initial checking of data files .....	136
Sampling frames .....	31	Analysing one variable at a time .....	138
Samples .....	31	Simple statistics .....	140
Random sampling .....	34	Analysing two variables together .....	149
Choosing a sample size .....	36	Interpreting survey results .....	153
Nonrandom sampling .....	38	Typicality .....	155
Choosing the sampling unit .....	43	Analysing surveys by hand .....	158
Sampling frames .....	44	A plan for survey analysis .....	159
Sampling from a population list .....	46	6 Presenting the findings .....	162
Choosing the place of interview .....	48	Consider the audience .....	162
Sampling inside clusters .....	52	How should a report be presented .....	163
Respondents per household .....	53	Layout for written reports .....	168
Choosing respondents in households.....	55	Words, numbers, or graphs .....	170
Sampling people in public places .....	57	Presenting data in graphs .....	172
Checklist of sampling decisions .....	57	Information about the survey .....	178
3 Writing questionnaires .....	59	Part II: Other research methods
Planning a questionnaire .....	59	Introduction .....	180
Revising questionnaires .....	63	7 Telephone surveys .....	183
Question formats .....	64	Sampling telephone numbers .....	183
Content of questions .....	70	Telephone interviewing methods .....	190
Question wording .....	73	8 Mail surveys .....	197
Wording of attitude questions .....	80	When to do a mail survey .....	197
Questions for audiences .....	83	Designing questionnaires .....	198
Format of questionnaires .....	92	Example of a mail questionnaire .....	206
Questionnaire layout .....	94	Identifying respondents .....	207
Pre-testing questionnaires .....	96	Try to get a high response rate .....	208
An example questionnaire .....	99	The covering letter .....	212
4 Interviewing your audience .....	105
Fieldwork.....	105

Sending questionnaires out .....	213	Find participants .....	288
Reminder letters .....	214	The group meets .....	290
8 Mail surveys (continued)		First stage: introduction .....	293
Processing the questionnaires .....	216	Second stage: discussion .....	293
Mail panels .....	216	Third stage: consensus .....	296
Fax surveys .....	217	Summarize the results .....	299
9 Visitor surveys .....	218	14 Response techniques .....	301
Performances .....	218	Encouraging audience contact .....	302
Exhibitions .....	221	Audience panels .....	304
Venue surveys .....	224	Tracking audience contact .....	305
10 Internet audience research .....	228	Using audience response records .....	308
Possibilities of internet research .....	228	Advantages and disadvantages .....	310
Internet jargon .....	229	15 Co-discovery conferences .....	311
Types of internet research .....	233	When to hold a conference .....	311
Internet audience measurement .....	233	Planning a conference .....	311
Email surveys .....	237	Conference procedures .....	314
Web surveys .....	241	A typical program .....	315
Qualitative internet research .....	245	Follow-up .....	324
Evaluating web sites .....	250	16 Content analysis .....	325
Review .....	252	What is content? .....	325
11 Observation .....	254	Selecting content for analysis .....	327
Formal observation .....	254	Units of content .....	328
Informal observation .....	259	Preparing content for coding .....	330
Ethical issues .....	261	Coding content .....	338
12 Qualitative interviewing .....	262	Examples of content analysis .....	338
Preparation .....	262	Counting and weighting .....	342
Interview guides .....	265	Coming to conclusions .....	343
Introductions .....	268	17 Using audience research .....	346
Interviewing techniques .....	269	How decisions are made .....	346
Recording qualitative interviews .....	272	Conditions for usable research .....	347
Interview summary form .....	274	Roles of researchers and sponsors .....	348
Content analysis .....	275	Using different types of findings .....	349
Computer analysis .....	279	How not to use research findings .....	350
Keep yourself honest .....	281	How to use research well .....	352
13 Group discussions .....	283	Appendixes
Focus groups .....	283	1 Common findings about audiences .....	356
Consensus groups .....	284	2 Further reading .....	361
Choose sampling points .....	285	3 Glossary media research terms .....	367
Organize a venue .....	286
Make a screening questionnaire .....	287		